

COMPANY PROFILE

ART IN OFFICES

Art in Offices was founded in 2012 by Katie Henry, with the aim to enrich office spaces, inspire staff and empower company brands.

Art in Offices want to bring the benefits of art to all offices, such as: increased productivity, higher creativity levels, and a reduction in sick days.

We firmly believe that art is something everyone should be able to enjoy, so we democratise art by making it affordable, and giving them the option to buy, rent or rotate.

OUR VALUES

We are Bespoke:

We provide a bespoke service for each and every client, no matter what size company or budget. Everyone gets the same level of service because every client matters.

We are Passionate:

We're passionate about what we do. We wake up every day eager to put amazing art on empty office walls.

We are Cultured:

We're the experts in what we do. We eat, sleep and breath art, and we invite you with us to the exciting events we attend.

We are Open:

We pride ourselves on being open, honest and trustworthy. There are never any hidden clauses or costs, and we make sure our artists are paid fairly.

ART IS GOOD FOR BUSINESS

WHY?

Putting art into an office immediately increases productivity by up to 42%

Teams working in an enriched office space work 15% quicker than those in a plain space

Like the furnishings and fit-out, the art on a company's walls continues the narrative of the company, and reinforces their company values.

BRAND IDENTITY

Art in Offices we know that what you have on the walls says a lot about you as a company. First impressions count, which is why it's so key to match the art to the brand narrative. We are experts in continuing the brand narrative through art, and having done this since 2012 incorporate, retail and luxury settings

We've got an amazing range of art and artists for you to work with, and are always working with new talent to ensure our inventory is leading, fresh and contemporary

EVENTS

Hunger Games v Art Attack

This is our most popular creative team building event. All you need is a large space with some tables and a your recycling bins.

Participants are split into small groups and given a creative building challenge, but in true Hunger Games style, nothing is what it seems!

Painting workshop

We run a series of painting workshops in which one of our talented artists will guide the group through their creative process. It's messy, fun and creative!

Drawing workshop

Do something with your lunchtimes! Organise one of our artists to come and guide you through drawing in your lunch break. This is great for promoting mindfulness and a way to recharge during the working day.

Blindfolded Builder

A communication skills based challenge - not your average team building event. Teams are set a "building" activity (desk sized or larger), where the builder is blindfolded and must listen to their teammates instructions in order to win the prize!

Gallery Tour and a Curry

One for after work. Art in Offices will take a group out of the office to visit a gallery. We'll pick a gallery that's not too far, organise for a curator, artist or gallery director to talk to you, then go for a curry and to mingle and chat.

Artist Talk

Invite one of our artists to talk about lifestyle as an artist, the creative process and building a career - many are parents, run galleries, are teachers and have other commercial side hustles. Solo talks or panel discussions are available.

ART IN OFFICES

The Picture Puzzle

This event is a creative break for the office where their efforts come together to make a larger team piece. It presents an opportunity for a team that wants to try its hand at something creative for the first time. This can be done in a lunch hour or after work.

The Domino Effect

The Domino Effect is an action packed night (or lunch) at the office. This event will test the team's communication and teamwork abilities, while getting those creative juices going. It's all about having fun and working together.

Crafty Creativity

This event is all about getting companies to think creatively about aspects that are vital to their success: company culture, brand values, and brand narrative. This takes form in an arts-and-crafts team building workshop, where employees are split into teams assigned different creative tasks.

PREVIOUS PROJECT

Brief:

"[We are] disruptors, quirky, Avant Garde future thinkers. We want our office to be the one everyone talks about and wants to visit."

Our client is a specialist, independent MGU based in The City of London. the nature of their business means they see a wide variety of clients in their offices frequently and value their employees creative, innovative thinking. Thus when they decided to move offices and had a blank canvas, they asked Art in Offices to step in and work closely with their fit-out company to create an energetic space that represents their brand values and company personality

TESTIMONIALS

"Art in Offices helped us transform our dull white office walls into a colourful and welcoming space bringing our office to life! On top of this their advice, patience and smooth installation are why I would highly recommend them"

Adesha Frazer, Tagetik.

"You wouldn't think that listening was a great skill to have in an art business, but it's key to the offer at Art In Offices. They listen to their clients, react to and interpret their needs and deliver on their promises. I couldn't recommend them more highly"

Robin Sheppard, Bespoke Hotel Group

"We are very delighted with the service that Art in Offices provides us. In particular, the Art In Offices team- building events provide the entire firm with an original and fun forum for letting off steam while engaging in some creativity".

Jonathan Leigh Hunt, Marriott Harrison LLP.

"Katie, Just a quick note to thank you for your work over the weekend and in helping us choose the artwork. The office looks great and I have had a number of positive comments already."

Chris Price, Mobeus Equity Partners

"We are extremely pleased with the effect and the colour really lifts the whole reception area. So, a good choice! I am also pleased to hear the positive comments from the occupiers."

Gareth Hall, City of London Corporation

THE TEAM

Katie Henry Director and Art Strategist

Katie has been working in the arts since 2008. She studied Fine Art Sculpture at Central Saint Martins, and she also has a Masters in Arts Administration and Management from University of London. She founded Art in Offices in 2012 after spotting that there were lots of offices with empty and bland walls, and she has made it her mission to bring joy to people through art. Katie will guide you through creating an art strategy for your company. From choosing art, to setting a budget; from starting an award to working with a charity, Katie will use her connections and knowledge to create and complete your art project.

Marianna Administrator

Marianna manages all of Art in Offices' logistics and shipping. Having come from a gallery and registrar background, she is used to projects with multiple moving parts (literally) where multiple clients have different requirements, and different artworks need different care. Marianna has super attention to detail and will pick up on anything that looks out of place, doesn't add up or needs extra attention. She is the office Lynchpin.

Sarah Mclean Sales and Business Development

Second in command (in more ways than one), Sarah assists Katie on projects with clients as well as working with her own clients.

Sarah has a background in auction houses, selling works on the secondary market and has a Masters in History of Art and Psychoanalysis. She knows the biz inside and out and is a creative powerhouse who can provide plenty of ideas for your office.

Pandora Mather Lees Art Trainer and Explainer

Pandora has worked for many years in all areas of the art world, from famous art libraries telling the prints of blue chip artists and photographers, to art shippers and online art galleries. These days she runs workshops for facility managers and their staff about how to care for art appropriately. She trains teams on the security, cleaning, lighting and logistics of art, and specialises in corporate art collections.
